CERRITOS, CALIFORNIA, January 25, 2013 - Omni-Lite Industries is pleased to announce that it has received several new orders since the last press release of December 11, 2012. The total value of these orders is approximately $832,000 US. Of these new orders, approximately 81 percent are in the Specialty Automotive division, 17 percent are in the Aerospace division and 2 percent are in the Sports and Recreation division.

"In the last six months, the Company has seen rapid growth in the sales booked in both the Aerospace and Specialty Automotive divisions. In both divisions, annual growth is expected to exceed 25% in 2013. In the Aerospace division, these increased sales are directly related to the increased number of commercial aircraft scheduled for delivery in the next few years. On the automotive side, the increased sales volumes can be attributed to the importance of green technologies in the diesel engine marketplace and the introduction, by Omni-Lite, of new components to support the automotive brake industry," stated Allen W. Maxin, President. "In the Military division, the Company is making rapid progress on the final development of two military components utilizing the new patent pending OD PLUS technology introduced in late 2012. The Company expects to submit one component for first article approval in early February and the other for first article approval in late February."
